ALLEGED "GUM" SHOE MEN IN CITY

Rumored Two Detectives Are Working Here to Get Evidence of Law Violations.

HAD SEVERAL CONVERSATIONS

Asserted One is to Look For Gambling And the Other For "Blind Tigers," Etc.

Dame Rumor—and she seldom starts anything without some foundation for it—has it that there are two detectives in the city, attempting to make some arrests for liquor law violations and gambling. There is every reason to believe that the two men are here and have been here for several days.

One of the fellows is described as a tall, rather handsome chap, with a rather dark complexion, black hair and dark brown eyes. He is said to be rather attractive in appearance at a first glance, always appearing in a neatly fitting black overcoat and a black derby hat. The other alleged detective is said to be an old man, who is rather "seedy" in appearance. Local people say that he might "get by" as a good "rube," but it is understood that he has done so many suspicious things that he has caused several to go on his trail.

Nothing is known of the two men only that they are believed to be detectives hired by some one or some organization to prosecute liquor law violators and gamblers, if there be any here. The two men, so it is said, have never given their names in any of their inquiries which they have made around the city. It is not known where they are staying.

Suspicion began to lurk about the two men, when they first began their questioning at some local business houses. It is said that the older man of the two, entered a place where soft drinks are sold one day recently and the following conversation is alleged to have taken place.

"Is there something for you?" asked the proprietor.

"I guess not. I am looking for a man," was his answer. "Are there any more saloons in the city?"

"This is not a saloon," protested the proprietor.

"Well, are there any more places in the city where a man can get a drink?"

"You can not get a drink here or any place else in the city," replied the proprietor, rather testily. "This is a 'dry' town."

"All right," and with that the stranger disappeared. The owner of the place put him down as a detective and he soon believed his suspicion to be true when he had compared notes with others.

The young man, so it is alleged, entered a restaurant the other night and told the man behind the counter he was very dry. He then asked if the man knew where he might quietly get a drink and not arouse any trouble. It is said that the restaurant man held that this was a "dry" town and that he did not know where it would be possible to get a drink. It is asserted that the stranger continued to question and wanted to know if a place could not be found where he could "set in" on a quiet game of poker. The restaurant man made it very plain that he knew nothing about the questions he had asked him and the detective left.

Inside the remains of a mammoth found in Siberia were vegetables hitherto unknown to science, evidently relics of the prehistoric animal's food.

ILL ONLY SINCE SUNDAY

Joseph Pritchard Expires of Pneumonia Rather Suddenly.

Joseph Pritchard died at his home, a short distance east of Knightstown and northeast of Carthage yesterday of pneumonia. He was taken ill only last Sunday and suddenly grew worse so that it was impossible for the attending physician to save his life. Mr. Pritchard was seventy-two years of age. He is survived by a widow, one son, Frank, and a daughter, Mrs. Harriet Carey.

TRIED TO KEEP WEDDING SECRET

Their Friends Were Wise and Walked Into House Just in Time For the Ceremony.

A POPULAR COUPLE MARRIED

Miss Hazel Marie Readle and James Howard Mahin were quietly married last night at the home of the bride in North Harrison street. That is, they tried to keep it quiet, but the timely arrival of their friends created no little disturbance.

It was generally known that they were to be married, but the exact time could not be learned. Friends of Mr. Mahin kept a close watch and came to the conclusion that last night was the time set. They waited on the outside until they heard the music of the wedding march, then bolted into the house, and witnessed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Mahin tried to escape from their clutches, but were not successful and were followed to their new home in East Eighth street where a hearty welcome was extended them.

The marriage took place at eight o'clock and was performed by the Rev. V. W. Tevis. The bride is a popular young woman of this city and is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Readle. Mr. Mahin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Mahin and is employed as city electrician.

SENDS CHILDREN TO ORPHANS' HOME

Deserted by Their Mother, Judge Blair Believes They Should be Cared For Properly.

SHERIFF TOOK THEM TODAY

An echo of the very recent case, when Mrs. Jesse Pickard deserted her husband and four children, came today when Sheriff Clara Bebout took the four children to Spiceland to be cared for by Rush county at the home there. The case was referred to the juvenile court and Judge Blair decided Wednesday that they should be sent there.

Since Mrs. Pickard's unmotherly act, the four children have run wild over the neighborhood, according to the assertion of neighbors. They complained that as soon as the father went to work for the day, they were free and could carry on any way they pleased.

Mrs. Pickard left her happy home a few months ago, saying that she could get more pleasure out of life by living apart from her children to whom she had given birth. There are two older sons in the family, one of whom is in the navy.

TAKES WHISKEY FOR HIS NERVES

Overdose Results in Arrest of George Morris, Former Local Printer For Drunkenness.

MAYOR BLACK RELEASES HIM

Tells Story of Saving Local Man's Life in Hotel Explosion in Greensburg.

Because George Morris, a "journeyman" printer, formerly employed on a local paper, was almost asphyxiated by escaping gas in a Greensburg hotel, and was given a drink of whiskey as a revive, he got "tight" and was arrested here last night while en route to Connersville. He appeared before Mayor Black this morning and because of pitiful "spiel," a promise of "never again" and as a saving to the county for free lodging, he was released on his own recognizance and allowed to go to Connersville, where he has a position on one of the papers. Since Morris had no money, Mayor Black figured that it would be cheaper to turn him loose than board him for eleven days.

In his plea to be released, Morris told of his thrilling experience in a gas explosion late Wednesday night, in the Portland Hotel in Greensburg. Morris said he was awakened by a terrific explosion and going out into the hall found flames coming from room six. He rushed in and found A. P. Alexander, a local man who is employed on the Indianapolis News, in flames. He smothered the fire and probably saved Mr. Alexander's life. In doing so he was burned about the head and face. After the excitement had died down he discovered that he was groggy and weak due to the fact that gas had come into his room which was across the hall from Mr. Alexander's, where the gas had escaped from a hose that had become disconnected.

He was given a drink of whiskey, and the next day procured a quart with the intention of using it for medical purposes, but instead he took an overdose and was found here last night and lodged in jail. It was a good thing that the explosion happened when it did, for Morris would have suffocated in a short time.

Morris said he found Alexander in bed, a ghastly sight, with his hair and beard singed off and half suffocated by the gas. A doctor was summoned to dress the painful wounds.

He told Mayor Black that had the explosion not occurred, he would have not been found in the condition he was. After a good talking to by the Mayor, he was released.

WILL BE TRIED IN HENRY

Hodges Murder Case Will Come up in New Castle.

Sylvester Hodges, who has been in jail for some time waiting trial on the charge of murder, in connection with the death of twelve-year-old Charles Shultz, will be tried in the Henry county circuit court next Monday as originally planned, says the New Castle Times. Attorney Rufus Hinshaw, who as county pauper attorney will defend Hodges, filed a motion Monday for a change of venue on the ground that Hodges could not have a fair and unbiased trial in Henry county. Judge Jackson had not ruled on the motion and Thursday morning it was withdrawn and the trial date remains Monday, January 16.

MAYOR FINDS FRITZ GUILTY

Gives His Decision This Afternoon in Alleged Liquor Selling Case—Fixes Bond at $100.

RECEIVES $50 FINE AND COSTS

John Joyce Appeals to the Circuit Court—To Come up in February Term.

Mayor Black returned his decision today in the liquor case against Blaine Fritz. He found Fritz to be guilty and fined him $50 and costs, making a total of $60. Fritz was tried Wednesday afternoon on the charge of selling Tom Worthington a pint of whiskey.

John Joyce, attorney for the defendant, appealed the case to the circuit court and it will come before Judge Blair during the February term of court. Fritz was released on $100 bond, P. A. Miller and Joe Lyons standing good for the amount.

The case created no little interest, as there were several fine points of the law involved. The chief point in discussion between the prosecutor and the attorney for the defendant, was that of the right, the prosecutor had to ask Fritz questions which would incriminate himself. Prosecutor Dennis O'Neil held that the moment the defendant was placed on the stand and turned over to cross examination he had the right to ask any and all questions he pleased. Mr. Joyce held that this might be all right in civil action and said he would like to have O'Neil in the circuit court, where he could show him. As a result of the decision of Mayor Black, Joyce will now get his chance.

OLD LAW FIRM IS DISSOLVED

Wallace Morgan and Samuel Innis go Separate Ways, Former Official to Move Soon.

OFFICES IN NEW BUILDING

That the new office rooms in the new Rushville National bank building and the Cutter building at the corner of Main and Second streets will soon fill up is evidenced by the announcement today that two law firms have already rented offices there. Samuel H. Trabue will be found in rooms one and two of the Cutter building, the first floor of which is occupied by the Aldridge grocery store. Rooms three and four, directly back of Mr. Trabue's office have been rented by Wallace Morgan, former deputy prosecutor.

The fact that Mr. Morgan has rented a separate office for himself leads to the announcement that the law firm of Innis & Morgan, which has had offices over the Peoples National bank for several years, has dissolved. Mr. Innis will still be located at the same old place, where the Innis & Morgan offices are.

The most expensive publication, with the least income, in New York city is the city record, which costs about $1,175,000 a year.

HAS BEEN AN INVALID

Mrs. Josiah Moore Dies After a Long Illness.

The funeral services of Mrs. Josiah Moore, who died at her home in Spiceland Wednesday night, will be conducted from the home tomorrow morning at ten o'clock. Burial will take place in the Spiceland cemetery. Mrs. Moore was about sixty years old and has been sick for several weeks. She had been an invalid for the past few years.

WILL MEET OLD RIVALS TONIGHT

Local High School Five and Connersville Team Will Clash in Basket Ball Contest.

FIRST GAME AT 7:15 O'CLOCK

The local high school basket ball team will play Connersville tonight at the Graham school building. Great interest is being taken in the contest as both teams are thought to be evenly matched. A large number of rooters are expected to accompany the Connersville team. This will be the local's first game of the season with another high school and the result is looked upon with interest by the followers of the sport.

Connersville has played one game this season being defeated by Lebanon several weeks ago. The game tonight will have a direct bearing on the State meet if either of the two schools should decide to try for the championship, as both are in the same section as outlined by the plans of the Boosters' Club of Indiana University.

There will be a curtain raiser between the second team of the Connersville high school and the second team of the local school. The game will begin promptly at 7:15 o'clock. The admission will be 25 cents. The team which will meet Connersville will line up as follows: Bebout, center; Kirkpatrick and Cameron, forwards; Carroll and Petry, guards.

DIVORCED WOMAN RESIDES IN RUSH

Mrs. Julia Gahimer is Granted Freedom From Her Husband on Cross-Complaint.

IN THE SHELBY CIRCUIT COURT

The divorce case of Frederick Gahimer against Julia Gahimer was heard by Judge Blair Thursday, says the Shelbyville Democrat. The evidence in the case showed that the couple was married January 28, 1879, and lived together until March 1, 1910. The testimony was of such a nature as to furnish material for neighborhood gossip.

Mrs. Gahimer said her husband frequently cursed her and abused her, while the husband said that the actions of his wife were such that his married life was far from being "one grand, sweet song." The court saw that the estrangement was one of a lasting nature. He refused the plaintiff a divorce, however, but granted the defendant a divorce on her cross-complaint. She was also given alimony in the sum of $600 upon payment of costs. The Gahimers formerly resided near Meltzerville where they are well known. Mrs. Gahimer now lives in Rush county.

BIG RAIN SPOILS SHOOTING MATCH

Stewart Beale Asserts That He's The Best Marksman And The Argument is On.

DR. TEVIS DOESN'T BELIEVE IT

Party Wades Out to Hollow Where They Planned to Decide Championship.

City Marshal Jesse Harlow is an excellent marksman, so he asserts. Stewart Beale makes the same declaration and Dr. V. W. Tevis avers that he is no slouch at the shooting game. The city officer comes back with the assertion that Policeman John Wolters is the best marksman in the city. The argument as to who was possibly the best shot in the crowd occurred at the city building late yesterday afternoon.

One of the claimants for the honors suggested that opportunity might be provided for the contestants to prove their assertions. So it was arranged that the necessary arms and ammunition should be procured and the crowd should adjourn to a quiet and desolate place where they could practice on a poor helpless target so long as they desired. And the best shot was to be declared champion.

After all of the details had been arranged, the crowd, consisting of the city marshal, Stewart Beale, George Helm and Dr. Tevis, started out East Third street. To say the least, that was a collection of celebrities to arouse suspicion and so the curiosity of all of the housewives, by whose homes they passed, was "riled" up and to the boiling point. The whole neighborhood was agog with excitement. The beliefs as to reason for the appearance of the crowd in that part of the city, were many. But when the party arrived at the I. & C. car barns and turned east, housewives in that neighborhood were almost ready to telephone headquarters to know the trouble.

To add to the mystery of the occasion, Policeman Wolters appeared on the scene. He came down Third street on the "double-quick" and rounded the bend at the car barns. But another figure was added to the scenery in that section of the city. "Bill" Moffett came down Third street even at a faster clip than the policeman before him had taken. Then curiosity had almost consumed most women in that part of the city.

But Policeman Wolters never went very much farther than the car barns. A deluge of the damp stuff that has been prevalent here most of the week, began to pour out of the heavens and he had to give up his hasty pursuit. He took refuge in a covered wagon, while "Bill" went on unperturbed.

Shortly before the rain began, the women understood. They heard several sharp cracks and way down in the hollow, south of the I. & C. power house they saw the crowd. When the downpour began they snuggled close together but the rain was too much. They had to abandon their tournament to name the best marksman in the city and will continue to argue the question until it is finally held.

HAD GOOD SEASON.

New Castle Courier: Curt Gosnell, the well known Cambridge City horseman, was a New Castle visitor on Thursday. Mr. Gosnell had a very successful season on the Grand circuit and in the West Virginia, Maryland and Virginia circuits last summer and fall. His leading performers were Willie Benton, 2:05 1/4, and Harry K. Thaw. The latter horse won six firsts out of nine starts.

Lesson III.—First Quarter, For Jan. 15, 1911.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, II Chron. xv. 1-15. Memory Verses, 1, 2—Golden Text, II Chron. xv. 7—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

Although Abijah, son of Rehoboam, reigned only three years and walked in all the sins of his father (I Kings xv. 1-3), yet there is in II Chron. xiii a remarkable record of a great victory which the Lord gave him over the army of Jeroboam, which was just twice as great as his because he relied upon the Lord God of his fathers. The Lord has often seen fit to do mighty things for very unworthy people for His great name's sake. Jer. xiv. 7, is very strong and effectual pleading.

Our lesson today introduces us to good King Asa, who reigned forty-one years and did that which was good and right in the eyes of the Lord his God. He also defeated an army twice as large as his own because he relied on the Lord (xlv. 8, 9; xvi. 8). His prayer in chapter xiv. 11, has often helped me: "Lord, it is nothing with Thee to help, whether with many or with them that have no power. Help us, O Lord our God, for we rest on Thee, and in Thy name we go."

Yet in the thirty-sixth year of his reign he was led into making a league with the king of Syria, and, being reproved for it by the Lord through His servant Hanani, he became so angry that he put the prophet in prison. He seems never to have got over this reproach of the Lord, for when, three years later, he became diseased in his feet he did not seek the Lord in his affliction.

All the Lord's dealings with His people are intended to bring them nearer to Himself, but to this day many become so offended by what He does or does not do that they turn away from Him and lose all fellowship with Him. Some of my friends know something of the preciousness to my soul of these words of the Lord through His servant Hanani, "The eyes of the Lord run to and fro throughout the whole earth to show Himself strong in the behalf of them whose hearts are perfect toward Him" (chapter xvi. 9). We need such a word as this so much, for the devil is always going to and fro in the earth and walking up and down in it. As a roaring lion he walketh about, seeking whom he may devour (Job i. 7; ii. 2; I Pet. v. 8).

Early in the reign of Asa the Spirit of God spoke to him through Azariah, the son of Oded, in the words of verses 2 to 7 of our lesson, referring to the years past when the people had been out of fellowship with God, but whenever they in their trouble sought Him He was always found of them. Much of the message takes us back to the days of the judges. By the Lord's gracious dealings with His people in the past, notwithstanding all their sin, He encouraged Asa with the words, "Be ye strong, therefore, and let not your hands be weak, for your work shall be rewarded" (verse 7). His exhortation to us still and always is, "Be strong in the Lord and in the power of His might" (Eph. vi. 10). See also Isa. xl. 28-31; xlv. 24; Josh. i. 6, 18; Hag. ii. 4, and note by contrast Uzziah, who was marvelously helped till he was strong, but then his heart was lifted up to his own destruction (chapter xxvi. 15, 16). The danger is our own strength or self confidence, for it is only when we are weak that we are really strong (II Cor. xii. 9, 10). Isa. xli. 13, is a grand word for weak hands, and, as to works, how full of encouragement is I Cor. xv. 58! Rev. xxii. 12; Luke xiv. 14, are two of the best on rewards.

The king, being greatly encouraged by this message from the Lord, began to purge the land of idolatry, even destroying the idol of his grandmother (I Kings xv. 12, 13), and to restore the worship of the true God. The people fell to him in abundance out of Israel when they saw that the Lord his God was with him (verse 9). They sacrificed unto the Lord and sought Him with their whole desire and entered into a covenant to seek the Lord God of their fathers with all their heart and with all their soul (verses 11-15).

The first use of the title God "Almighty," which means "the mighty God who is all sufficient," is in Gen. xvi. 1, where Abram is encouraged to walk before God and be sincere or upright or whole hearted. From the book of Job, in which this title is used more often than in all the rest of the Bible, we learn that to know the Almighty there must be an abhorrence and renunciation of self (Job xlii).

This turning to God in the days of Asa was such a reality that they decreed that whosoever would not seek the Lord God of Israel should be put to death, whether small or great, whether man or woman (verse 13). It might be a question whether this compulsory turning to God would, after all, prove to be a real turning of the heart. With us it is either life or death. He who does not truly receive the Lord Jesus is dead in trespasses and sins, a lost soul, but the good news is that Jesus came to seek and save the lost (John iii. 18; I John v. 12; Eph. ii. 1, 2; II Cor. iv. 3). If the love of Him who gave up all His glory and bare our sins on Golgotha does not win us to Him we must be dead indeed.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning Jan. 15, 1911.

Topic.—Lessons from great lives—L. Abraham—Gen. xxi. 1-18. Edited by Rev. Sherman H. Doyle, D. D.

Abraham was the first great character in God's development of a special people through whom the Messiah or Saviour of the world was to come. He is therefore well called "the father of the faithful." He was the head of those who were to believe in one God, first of all the Israelites and later on spiritually the father of all the disciples of Christ. Such a position placed him high in the history of the church of God and has given him an important place in the history of the world. Such a life should be fully read in the Bible in connection with the great lessons taught us from his wonderful career.

Abraham teaches us a lesson on faith—faith in the one living and true God. In the times of Abraham idolatry held absolute sway, with very few exceptions, and Abraham was one of them. His people were idolaters. His own family, except himself, believed in and worshiped idols. His father's business was that of selling idols, many of which Abraham is said to have destroyed. In such an age it took great courage to believe in one and a spiritual supreme being, yet Abraham stood the test. Never did he doubt, never falter in his faith. Such faith is greatly needed today. In our age much doubt and skepticism are abroad in the land. Many are confused and fearful. But no one should be.

We should be strong, bold, courageous in our faith and not "tossed about by every wave and wind of doctrine." If we be we shall be kept on the jump most of the time. Rather let us "be steadfast and immovable," and, like Abraham, we shall receive our reward. Abraham teaches us a lesson of obedience. Faith and obedience must go hand in hand. If we believe in God we acknowledge His right to command us, and, being commanded, we must obey. Believing in God when Abraham was called by Him to leave his own country and go to a strange one, which He would show him, Abraham obeyed without question and without hesitation. "Abraham departed, as the Lord had said." How the Lord called him we do not know, nor is it necessary to know. He did call him, and Abraham obeyed.

His not to reason why; His not to make reply; His but to do or die, as God desired of him. Would that more such implicit obedience to God existed among His people today! Too many modern Christians are like Jonah rather than Abraham. They are ordered to one place and go to another; they are told to do one thing, but neglect or refuse to do it.

Abraham teaches us a lesson on faithfulness under test. God desired for His own all wise purpose to put Abraham to a severe test. Therefore He called upon him to sacrifice Isaac, his only and long promised son. But Abraham stood the test. He carried out the command of God literally until God Himself, accepting the will for the deed, invoked it and blessed Abraham for his steadfastness under such a severe trial. We are being constantly tested and tried. Let us follow the example of Abraham and stand the test, showing an entire consecration to God that cannot but influence all about us.

A Christian Endeavor Hero.

When the city of Peking, China, was stormed by the international armies in 1900, after the Boxer massacres, the first to reach the top of the wall was a boyish private soldier of the Fourteenth infantry. His name was Calvin P. Titus. He was an earnest Endeavorer, and the honor and promotion that came to him on account of his bravery—he received a medal from congress and President McKinley appointed him to West Point—did not quench his religious zeal.

As he desired to enter the ministry, the military authorities have prevailed upon him to be ordained for this work and accept a chaplaincy in the army. He has been ordained in the United Brethren church, and after he has the specified ministerial experience he will be appointed chaplain and will work among the soldiers.

THIS MAY CLEAR UP A MYSTERY OF THE PAST

Skeleton Found on Site of an Old Time Roadhouse.

Noblesville, Ind., Jan. 13.—With the finding of an old trunk with parts of a human body in it, in what was an old roadhouse at the time, the mystery of the disappearance of Eugene Woodmansee on the day that he was to be married in 1867, is believed to be solved. Excavation under the house was made as the result of the finding of some human bones just under the surface, a few days ago. In digging under the old house the spade was inserted under the lid of the trunk, which was in a rotten condition. When the lid was broken off a gruesome sight was presented. At the bottom was a skull, bones of the spinal column, all joined, in a curved line from the base of the skull, and one bone of each leg resting on the breast bone. The bones of the toes were on each side of the spinal bones.

At one side of the skull were the sole and heel of an old shoe. A small bit of tissue paper was found with a capital "E" on it, written in ink. The paper crumbled to dust in the fingers of one of the workmen.

Woodmansee came here to marry Sarah Virt, and after reaching the city he went to the minister who was to perform the ceremony and arranged the details. His mother and father had come with him from their Illinois home to be present at the wedding. He was never seen after leaving the minister on the street. The young man had a large sum of money on his person, and it is believed that he was murdered and parts of his body placed in the trunk and other parts buried in the ground near it.

To Test President's Medal.

Worcester, Mass., Jan. 13.—Because of reports that the medal given President Taft by the railroad men of the country when he came to their big gathering in Worcester last April, was not solid gold, but brass with a gold plating, Martin N. Doyle, secretary of the Worcester committee that arranged the demonstration, has sent to President Taft a letter asking him to hand the jewel to an assayer and to have submitted to the committee a copy of the assay report, that they may have authentic knowledge relative to the jewel.

The negotiations for the reciprocity treaty between the United States and Canada are proceeding slowly.

The legislative bill carrying authorized expenditures approximating $35,000,000 has been passed by the house.

Fire which started in a saloon at Welch, W. Va., destroyed several buildings and caused a loss exceeding $100,000.

The New York Shipbuilding company of Camden, N. J., has the contract for building the first Chinese man-of-war ever laid down in this country.

The battleship Texas, which has been out of commission for the last several years, will be used as a target at the next target practice of the Atlantic fleet.

Cotton exports from the United States in 1910 aggregated $530,000,000 in value, exceeding by more than $60,000,000 the highest record ever heretofore made.

The Dominion government has decided upon granting a subsidy of £25,000 annually for steamship service between ports on the Pacific coast and China and Japan.

Tom L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, has given out a statement on the recent election, which he says he has won, by a majority of 10,000 or more.

Offers of compromise are now before the government in undervaluation frauds in New York aggregating at least $1,000,000. The frauds were perpetrated particularly in silk goods and millinery.

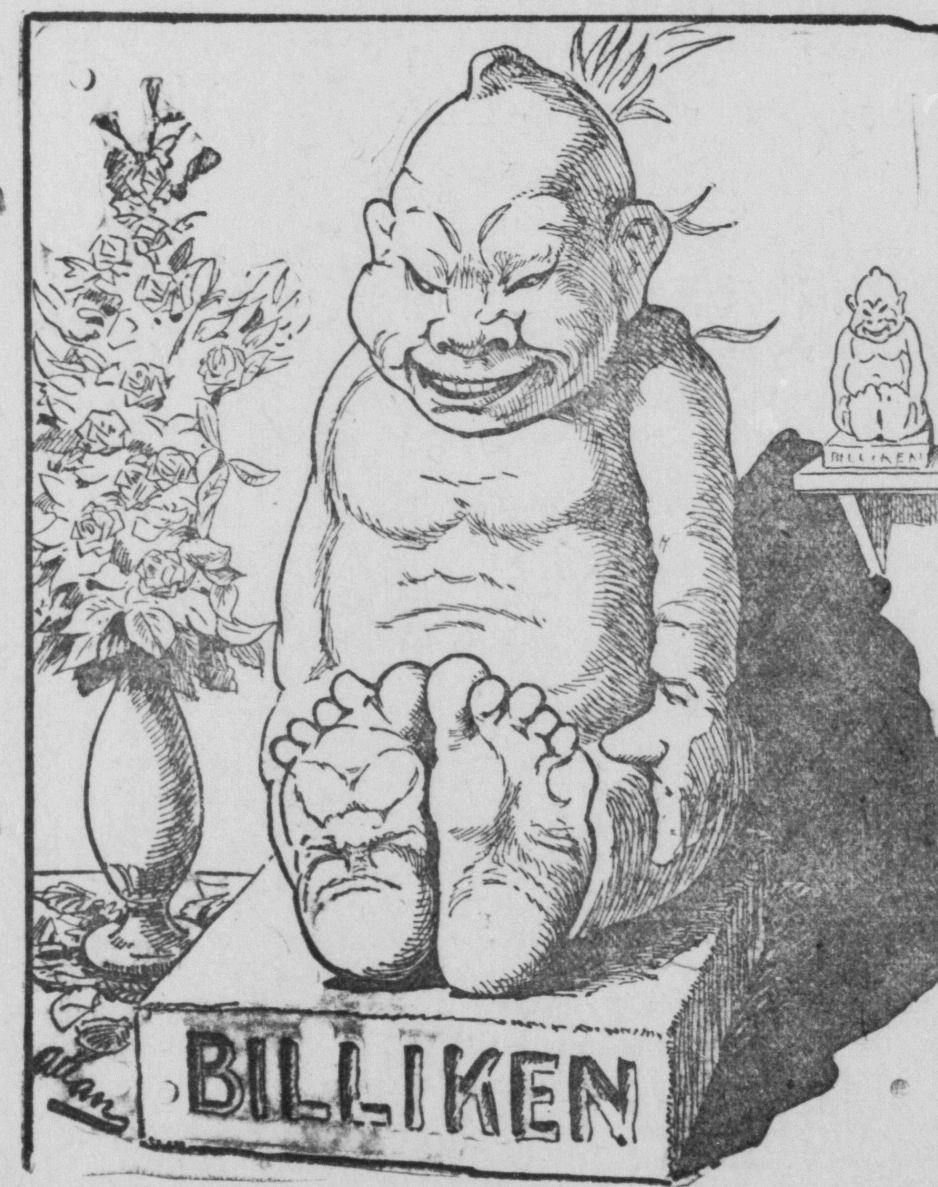

John H. Gilman, one of the official weighers of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, committed suicide. He had been brooding over the fire which destroyed the Chamber of Commerce building Tuesday night.

Lone Star State Gives Promise of Being in That Condition.

Austin, Tex., Jan. 13.—The Prohibitionists are in control of both branches of the legislature by a good majority, and radical anti-saloon bills have been introduced. One of them restricts the sale of liquor to one quart and prohibits it from being drunk on the premises where bought, and another prohibits the sale of liquor within ten miles of any educational institution.

DO YOU GET YOUR MONEY'S WORTH?

Every day buying is becoming more of a science.

To buy the right kind of goods at the right prices requires discrimination and care—anyone can rush out and buy any old kind of goods from the first dealer he finds.

Some people fail to get the most for their money when it comes to buying their supplies, but are very particular about unimportant matters.

A great help in this direction are the advertisements of the merchants.

Before visiting the stores one can make the task comparatively easy by securing a great deal of information from the announcements of the dealers.

Then shopping can be more intelligently done.

A dealer's sins will sooner or later find him out if he makes a misstatement in his advertisement, and you may depend upon it that he can not keep it up for any great length of time.

It will lose him trade.

The dealer can not afford to misrepresent. He tells the public exactly what he has to sell and explains in honest terms the value of his goods. He is worthy of your confidence and can be depended upon implicitly. This dealer regularly makes his announcements through the columns of the newspapers.

Advertising is the searchlight which reveals true character and only the truth alone can stand regular advertising.

It will pay you to read the advertisements.

Miss Estelle Jones and Miss Bertha Helm of Rushville are attending a week-end party given by Dr. and Mrs.
Harry Allen VanOsdol, 510 East
Thirty-first street, says the Indianapolis Star. Mrs. VanOsdol will give a rose luncheon this afternoon. Yesterday Mrs. Clarence Robinson entertained the guests.

Even though the weather was very disagreeable the Tri Kappa Bride party, given in the Social club rooms this afternoon, was a decided success. A large company of women was present, many of them from out of the city, for the affair.

The guests began to arrive about two o'clock and it was nearly three o'clock before the tables were arranged and the playing was started.
On account of the large crowd it was necessary to use enough tables to cover most of the floor space in the club rooms. A light luncheon was served at four o'clock.

The guests from out of the city were: Mrs. Beth Kahn, Miss Blanche Kahn, Mrs. L. O'Brecht, Mrs. A. W.

AMUSEMENTS

In addition to the regular program at the Star Grand tonight, the management will present the original picture of New York's "Chinatown and the Bowery." A complete work on the famous East Side, with all its peculiar and interesting types, its narrow streets, bustling throngs, crowded tenements, squalid lodging houses, firesome sweat shops and all its lights and shadows.

The Vaudet will have two strong films tonight which is according to their usual custom. The first is an Imp, "The Garden of Fate." It is said to be a drama of exceptional merit with a strong plot and many stirring situations. The other, an Italia, "Foolshead Fisherman" is a comedy of laughable proportions. It is one of a series of films, several of which have already been here. A new illustrated song will be sung.

The Palace will offer another Bio-graph film to its patrons tonight. The reel contains two pictures. "Turning the Tables" is said to be a very clever story while the second subject, "Happy Jack, the Hero," is said to be even better. Miss Iva Brown will sing a new illustrated song.

CHAPTER XXII.

In the Pilot House.

Cayley had been right in assuming, as he did in his conversation with Jeanne, upon the subject, that Roscoe and the other people of the Walrus had never noticed the ice chimney, nor suspected the existence of the pilot house upon the cliff-head. Also, he had followed correctly the track of Roscoe's mind in the deduction that the two latest castaways upon this land—that is, Philip and Jeanne—must have perished in the great storm which began on the night when he fired the hut, and continued for so many weeks that he, like them, lost all trace of reckoning.

During the storm he had lived in the cave, much as Philip and Jeanne had lived in the pilot house on the cliff; he had, that is to say, in some purely automatic fashion, kept on existing. The mere momentum of a mature man's vitality makes it hard for him to die. But when the storm abated and milder weather came, he bestirred himself, as Cayley did, and set about digging a tunnel of his own through the great drift which had blocked the entrance to his cave.

The next time the moon came up, after he had completed the tunnel from the cave, he set out down the beach toward the ruins of the hut.

It was not mere curiosity which attracted him, nor any lurking fear, but simply the hope of making some salvage from the wreckage of the hut, or possibly, from the bodies of his two victims, in case he was lucky enough to find them. He had no doubt at all that they were dead.

His pleasure over the quantity and condition of the stores he found in the ice cave compensated for his disappointment over not finding the bodies of his two latest victims.

Evidently they had not even attempted to use such shelter as the ice chamber afforded, for it showed no mark of human habitation at all. They had probably wandered outside and died in one of the near-by drifts. Perhaps he would find them some day. For the present, however, the stores occupied his whole attention.

Very methodically he set to work, carrying them off to his own cave, working without fatigue and without intermission—working so long as the moonlight lasted.

He was just setting out with his last load when, glancing skyward to see how long the light would hold, he caught a glimpse of Cayley on the wing. The sight occasioned him no return—not even momentary—of the old terror. He cursed a little because he had not his rifle with him; the sky-man soaring slowly and not very high, presented a mark he could almost certainly have hit.

It was surprising, of course, to see him alive, but Roscoe, in his present state, never thought of looking to supernatural means to account for the fact. Indeed, he was hardly more than a moment in approximating the true explanation. There might well be, he supposed, up somewhere in the face of the cliff a cave, or shelter, of which he knew nothing, and easily accessible to anyone who happened to possess a flying machine.

Skirting the cliff and keeping well in its shadow, he made his way with his last load, back to his cave. Here he spent a few minutes cleaning his rifle, making sure that the mechanism of the breech was working perfectly, and filling its magazine full of cartridges.

The moon was just setting, but the sky was still bright enough to give him a good hope of making out Cayley's winged figure against it.

Roscoe squatted down in the lee of the great hummock of ice, surveyed the heavens with keen, practised eyes, munched on a strip of dried walrus-meat which he had brought with him and waited very contentedly.

He had not long to wait. Long before the moon twilight had gone out of the sky he saw in it silhouetted against it, the sight from which he had once fled with such mad terror—the broad expanse of the sky-man's wings.

Instead of firing, he scrambled up to the top of the nearest ice hummock says it is surprising how many old-fashioned remedies are being used, which goes to show that it is hard to improve some of our grandmothers' old, time-tried remedies. For instance, for keeping the hair dark, soft and glossy, nothing equaling our grandmothers' "sage tea" has ever been discovered. Although, by the addition of sulphur and other ingredients, this old-fashioned brew has been made more effective as a scalp tonic and color restorer. Nowadays when our hair comes out or gets faded or gray, instead of going to the garden or garret for herbs and making the "tea" ourselves, we simply go to the nearest drug store and ask for a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur. This preparation is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or is sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Cortlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

AN UP-TO-DATE DRUGGIST

and from there watched Cayley's flight to his landing place.

He laughed aloud when he saw that it was not in the side of the cliff, as he had feared, but quite at the crest of it—where it was as accessible to a man who could climb a bit as to one with wings.

He did not move from his attitude of strained attention, on the summit of a little ice hill, until he saw a faint glow of golden light diffusing itself from the mouth of the tunnel that led to the pilot house. Then, with that queer shuffling gait of his, which was neither walk nor run, he began making his way inshore, over the ice, toward the foot of the cliff.

Cayley's tunnel was not at right angles to the crest, but bore off diagonally westward. Roscoe had noted this fact, and he figured it out from the top of the promontory, which formed the western boundary of their strip of beach, he should be able to command a view straight into the tunnel. Also, there was at this point a precipitous trail up the cliff. No one but Roscoe would have called it a trail, but that was the way it existed in his mind.

His calculation of the angle of the tunnel proved to be correct, for from his newly-gained vantage, he could see straight into the pilot house and make out clearly enough two figures there.

Once more he was tempted to fire, and might have yielded to the temptation had not the light been put out before he had fairly got his eyes adjusted to the distance.

It is to be remembered, always, that he knew nothing whatever of the ice chimney, and suspected no connection between the hut and the pilot house, except by the air. For anything he knew to the contrary, Jeanne might be able to fly, as well as Philip, or he to carry her with him upon his flights. Consequently, he did not suspect, when he saw Cayley take to flight again, that this action had any reference to himself; nor that the woman who was left alone would be on her guard against him.

The moment he glimpsed the shadow of Cayley's wings against the stars he began making his way, cautiously, over the crusted snow, toward the pilot house. The door was closed, but there was a light shining out through a crack beneath it. It was a glass door, but something had been hung over the glass so that he could not see into the interior.

Both Jeanne and Philip had made the mistake of assuming that the only way of access to the pilot house, except to Philip with his wings, was the ice chimney. It was a natural mistake enough—one that almost any but a practised mountaineer would have made.

Furthermore they had no reason—either of them—for anticipating an attack upon the pilot house while Philip was gone. They had been living here, now for weeks, in unbroken security. So, though the girl obeyed Philip's injunction literally and scrupulously, she did it without the slightest sense of personal danger, and indeed she would hardly have had room for such an emotion even if there had been a much more reasonable ground for it.

She was sitting beside the oil stove, in one of the farther corners of the room. The chimney hole was in the corresponding corner. The revolver lay on the table in the middle of the room, a few paces behind her. The pilot house door was directly in line with it, and almost exactly behind her back. The door was hinged to swing inward.

When it burst open she attributed the fact to no other agency than the wind. She laid down the red-bound book upon the bench beside her and rose, rather deliberately, before she turned round.

As she did so Roscoe sprang forward to the table and seized the revolver. Her failure to turn immediately had given him the second he needed to take in the strategic possibilities of the room.

His rifle was a clumsy weapon in close quarters. So, as he sprang for-

HAIR HEALTH

If You Have Scalp or Hair Trouble, Take Advantage of This Offer

We could not afford to so strongly endorse Rexall "93" Hair Tonic and continue to sell it as we do, if we were not certain that it would do all we claim it will. Should our enthusiasm carry us away and Rexall "93" Hair Tonic not give entire satisfaction to the users, they would lose faith in us and our statements, and in consequence our business prestige would suffer.

Therefore, when we assure you that if your hair is beginning to unnaturally fall out or if you have any scalp trouble, Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will promptly eradicate dandruff, stimulate hair growth and prevent premature baldness, you may rest assured that we know what we are talking about.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is vastly different from other similar preparations. We believe that it will do more than any other human agency toward restoring hair growth and hair health. It is not greasy and will not gum the scalp or hair or cause permanent stain. It is as pleasant to use as pure cold water.

Our faith in Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is so strong, that we ask you to try it on our positive guarantee that our money will be cheerfully refunded without question or quibble if it does not do as we claim. Certainly we can offer no stronger argument. It comes in two sizes, price 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it only at our store,—The Rexall Store. Thos. W. Lytle.

ward, he dropped it and made for the revolver instead. It only needed a glance at the girl to convince him that she was unarmed. Quite deliberately he broke open the breech of the revolver and satisfied himself that it was loaded. Then he looked up again, blinking at the girl.

It was no wonder that Carlson and Rose had mistaken her for the ghost of the man their leader murdered. She looked like her father as a woman may resemble a man, and her whiteness, her fineness, her delicacy all increased rather than diminished the credibility of the idea that she was in fact his spirit.

The hand which held the revolver dropped nervously at his side. He swallowed hard, and wrung his cruel lips with his other great hand. It was then that the girl looked up into his face. It was then she uttered her first cry.

For she saw that he did not mean to kill her.

Suddenly Jeanne's eyes detached themselves from his face. A look of sudden alarm came into them, and she raised her hand to her throat, as though she were choking. She was looking past Roscoe, and straight down the snow tunnel.

"Philip!" she cried, "take care; he's here."

The snow tunnel was empty, and for aught she knew, her lover's body might be lying mangled in the monster's cave. She had thought of that before she tried the trick. But, even if that were so, that cry of hers might lead the monster to steal one uneasy glance at the door behind him; and even that would give her time enough. If he had not killed Philip, but simply eluded him, he would turn instantly.

That was what he did. He sprang round with a suddenness which bespoke a perfectly genuine, common-sense alarm. And then he found himself in darkness.

He understood at once that he had been tricked. Without wasting the time to turn back and look at Jeanne, he sprang toward the pilot house door. He thought she meant to attempt to rush by him, gain the snow-tunnel and throw herself over the crest of the cliff. He had not misread the sudden loathing he had seen in her eyes when they met his face.

In the open doorway he wheeled round, triumphantly. She had not got ahead of him that time. He laughed aloud into the darkness, and then spoke to her, with a vile, jocular familiarity.

A MOVE TO BREAK MRS. EDDY'S WILL

Claim That Bequest to "Mother Church" Is Illegal.

AN ACTION IN INJUNCTION

Son of the Late Head of the Christian Science Church Has Begun a Suit Looking to the Breaking of His Mother's Will on Ground That Big Bequest to Church Is Forbidden by Statute.

Concord, N. H., Jan. 13.—With the clerk of the superior court Dewitt C. Howe of counsel for George W. Glover, son of the late head of the Christian Science church, has filed a petition in equity, setting forth the claim that Mrs. Eddy's will was illegal and praying for a construction thereof and also asking that Henry M. Baker be enjoined from paying out any money on account of the estate until legal questions are settled, and enjoining J. E. Fernald, resident trustee of the Eddy property, from allowing any of the $2,000,000 of the property which he has possession of, from being taken beyond the jurisdiction of this state.

The contention is based upon the provision in Mrs. Eddy's will giving to the "mother church" in Boston the sum of $2,000,000 despite the fact that the Massachusetts statute expressly provides that "the income of the gifts, grants, bequests and devises made to or for the use of any one church shall not exceed $2,000 a year, exclusive of the income of any parsonage land granted to or for the use of the ministry," while that of New Hampshire permits a gift to any one church the income of which shall not exceed $5,000 a year.

Opinions by two eminent jurists, Hannis Taylor and William L. Chambers, that Mrs. Eddy's bequest of $2,000,000 to the First Church Scientist of Boston is forbidden by the laws of both Massachusetts and New Hampshire, are given in documents handed out here and signed by these two, as well as by the original counsel for George W. Glover and Dr. E. J. Foster-Eddy, Messrs. William E. Chandler, John W. Kelley, and Dewitt C. Howe.

F. R. Streeter, long counsel for Mrs. Eddy, when his attention was called to the opinion, stated that he saw in it nothing which would indicate that a will contest could be precipitated with any hope of success on the part of the contestants.

HELD THE WIDOW

Grand Jury Charges Mrs. Karney With Killing Husband.

Portland, Ind., Jan. 13.—Mrs. Fallie Karney, widow of John Karney, a Corkwell storekeeper, who was killed Halloween, has been arrested charged with having committed the crime. The arrest was made following the return of an indictment by the grand jury.

Mrs. Karney's story was that her husband was killed about 9 o'clock Halloween, when two masked men called him to the door of his store to purchase tobacco. A fight ensued, she says, in which Karney was shot twice, once through the heart and once through the hip. He walked to the rear of his store and fell dead as he entered the kitchen of his home adjoining. The officers were not notified of the crime until two hours after the killing.

Mrs. Peter Mauzy

Mary Jane Wilson, daughter of Daniel and Susannah Loose Wilson, was born near Brookville, Franklin county, November 22, 1830 and departed from this life January 4, 1911, at the age of 80 years, 1 month and 13 days. On January 23, 1851 she was married to Peter Mauzy, with whom she had lived to celebrate their Golden wedding anniversary more than nine years ago, as they had lived together nearly sixty years.

To this union six children were born, five of whom survive, one dying in infancy. The children are Mrs. Joshua Lynam of Greenfield, Mrs. J. B. McCarty, Mrs. L. J. Cline, Greely P. Mauzy and Mrs. P. A. Newhouse all of this city. Mrs. Mauzy was the fourth child in a family of eight children, having five brothers and two sisters. The brothers are Robert, Hiram, John, Daniel and William; the sisters, Rebecca Wilson and Mrs. Eunice Butler who lives in Indianapolis. Daniel, who lives in Marion, Indiana and Mrs. Butler are the only surviving children. From this union there are 13 living grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Many of the older residents of the city will remember her father, Daniel Wilson, who was an exchange and stock broker, and for years quite well known here in the banking and commercial world. The old family home was where Judge Will M. Sparks now lives in North Main street. Many will also recall one of the brothers, William, who was in the undertaking business here for years and lived in east Second street, where his widow and daughters still reside, and in whose home the deceased sister, Rebecca, died fifteen years ago. Mrs. Mauzy was a loving and faithful companion and an earnest Christian woman, having been a member of the Christian church for more than fifty-six years, to which church she was ever loyal, ever being a regular attendant until her health failed about six months ago.

During their early married life it was no uncommon experience for the father to ride one horse and take with him one of their little ones, and the mother, mounted upon another, would also carry one of the small ones with her. Mr. and Mrs. Mauzy have many a time gone to the little old country church in this way.

During Mrs. Mauzy's sickness she suffered a great deal, but was ever patient and kind through it all. Her last days seemed to be her happiest ones and she passed away fully resigned to her condition, for as she expressed it, she was only going home to join hands with her loved ones who had gone just a little before, for

"There is no death; what seems so in transition,

Is but a suburb of the life elysian, Whose portal we call death."

Her husband, brother, sister, children, grand-children and great grand children and a large circle of friends are left behind just a little while, for soon even we all must join the silent procession that marches to that mysterious realm from which no traveler ever returns.

SOUGHT HOTEL FOR A DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Young Woman Shoots Lover and Herself At Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Jan. 13.—In the Braden hotel last night after Carl V. Storey, a student at the University of Illinois, but whose home is at Columbus, Ind., was shot and fatally wounded by Alice Poehler, formerly of Guthrie, Ind. The girl fired one shot into Storey's body, the bullet entering near the heart, and, thinking she had killed him, she turned the pistol on herself, sending a bullet into her own body near the heart.

Storey and the girl reached the hotel about noon and were shown to a room. What transpired between them is not known, but two pistol shots were heard in the room, and when persons entered both were lying on the floor desperately wounded but conscious. The girl refused to make any statement and Storey was in so much pain that he could not talk. After being transferred to a hospital the girl became speechless. Storey was resting easier, but would not talk.

That the crime was premeditated was shown by a letter found in the room, in which Miss Poehler had written to her relatives that when they received it she would be dead. She also said that she intended to kill Storey because he had deceived her.

ACCOUNTING ACT TO BE AMENDED

Working of New Indiana Law Is Unsatisfactory.

GOVERNOR PROPOSES CHANGES

In Consistence With Executive Recommendations a Measure Is Being Drafted Which Will So Modify the Public Accounting Law as to Strip It of Some Features Which Have Been Found Objectionable.

Indianapolis, Jan. 13.—Assistant Attorney General James E. McCullough is preparing the draft of a measure to amend the public accounting act, as proposed by Governor Marshall in his message, and the bill will be introduced as an administration measure. The governor proposes that the law shall be amended so that actions at law to recover on shortages reported by the field examiners shall be in the hands of local officials, instead of the attorney general, as now provided.

Another proposed amendment is to change the method of selecting field examiners. Under the present law the board holds public examinations for applicants to qualify, and the list of field men is made up from the eligibles thus obtained. Two examinations have been held, but the operations of this phase of the law have not been satisfactory. A number of men became eligible, but proved of little worth when placed in the field, and although about 125 appointments have been made, the appointees either dropped out or were removed after trial until the average number of men at work during 1910 was only fifty-two, while the law provides for a maximum list of 100.

It has been found that men capable of doing the work will not run the risk of losing good places to come to Indianapolis to take the examinations. They have no assurance of employment, and no assurance, under the present law, can be given. In the examinations held, it is known that several men whose services the state board was anxious to obtain were threatened with discharge by employers if they took the examination. The experience of the state board on the first of the two examinations held was such that on the second examination the board declined to make public the list of persons who appeared for examination because of the fact that some of them told the chief that they had been compelled to tell their employers they were absent because of sickness of relatives in order to get away from their work to take the examination.

Work of Accounting Board.

The tabulated statement of the work done by the field examiners, together with the amounts recovered, has been placed on file in the office of the state chief of accounts by W. A. Dehority, chief of the board. It is for inspection by members of the general assembly. The tabulations set out in detail the municipality examined, the per diem of the examiners and their railroad fares, the direct charges and the constructive charges made against officials and former officials found to be short, and the amount recovered in every examination during the year ending Dec. 31.

Direct charges, as has been explained, are those in which the official or former official is charged with money to which he was not entitled under the law, when he took it. A constructive charge is one for money in a case in which an official failed to follow the law, but where it is not shown that the municipality was a loser or that it did not get value received. An abstract of the detailed tabulation has been filed with the members of the house by Mr. Dehority, showing the total cost of the 1,711 examinations which have been completed and the reports made public to be $145,552.30, while the total direct charges amounted to $429,863.62 and the constructive charges to $301,867.30. The amount recovered by voluntary settlement by officials and former officials found short in their accounts amounted to $50,967.11.

A referendum bill has been introduced in the senate by Senator Grube, providing that no ordinance, granting a franchise, passed by any city council or town board, shall go into effect sooner than thirty days after its passage. If, during the thirty days, any protest, signed by 15 per cent of the voters, casting ballots at the last preceding election is filed, the ordinance is suspended until an election, at which the ordinance is referred to the voters, is held.

In the senate yesterday twenty-one bills were introduced, making 91 bills thus far cast into the legislative hopper in the upper house. Joint resolutions for the amendment of the federal constitution so as to give congress the power to levy an income tax; and for the amendment of the state constitution so as to allow only full-fledged citizens to vote, were reported favorably by committee. In the house thirty-six new bills were introduced, making 128 in all in that body. Among the bills introduced in both houses was the brewers' liquor regulation bill. The various committees have shown their activity by reporting on a number of bills which are now before the house. The governor signed the bill appropriating $120,000 for the expenses of the session.

CHANGED METERS AND DIDN'T SHUT OFF GAS

Explosion Which Followed Claimed Seven Lives.

Connellsville, Pa., Jan. 13.—Seven persons were killed by an explosion of natural gas in the basement of the 5- and 10-cent store of J. G. McCrory & Co. Five charred bodies have been recovered, only one of which has been positively identified.

The second body taken from the smoldering ruins was declared by the parents to be that of Christabel Smith, aged nineteen. Mabel Wagner, aged fifteen, and Minnie Mulac, aged fifteen, are known to have perished. Of the bodies recovered four are girls. The fifth is that of an unidentified man supposedly a customer. Attempting to change meters without shutting off the gas at the curb is held responsible for the disaster, and Coroner Bell promises a thorough investigation. That any of the twenty-five persons in the store escaped is regarded as miraculous. Within a few moments the entire two-story brick building was a mass of flames. Fifteen minutes after the explosion the walls collapsed. The presence of mind of Manager C. L. Poff, in opening a side door enabled a dozen girls to scramble to points of safety. Bystanders rushed into the burning building and dragged half a dozen others out. Minnie Wagner was pinioned beneath the debris and rescuers were compelled to abandon her to her fate when the flames reached them. The money loss is $75,000.

SAYS IT MUST STOP

Influence of Money in Elections Denounced by Wisconsin Governor.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 13.—"The influence of money in political campaigns in Wisconsin must be removed," says Governor F. E. McGovern in his message to the legislature in advocating the passage of an effective corrupt practices act.

The governor's declaration aroused much interest, coming as it did on the heels of the senate committee's report charging that the election of United States Senator Stephenson was brought about by corrupt methods.

STANDARD OIL IN NEW LIGHT

Giant Corporation Pictured as a Benefactor.

MILBURN'S GLOWING PRAISE

Attorney For the Standard Oil Company in Reopening the Argument in Big Trust Busting Case Before the Supreme Court, Described the Giant Corporation as a Great Beneficiary Enterprise.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Before the supreme court of the United States the Standard Oil company was pictured as a great beneficiary enterprise. The man who is conceded to have been most prominent in developing the gigantic corporation was denominated a business genius to be compared with the stars that shine in the world of art and literature.

For more than three hours John G. Milburn of Buffalo, attorney for the Standard Oil company, defended the corporation and John D. Rockefeller against the charge of having conspired to restrain trade in contravention of the Sherman anti-trust law. It was the opening argument in the second of the big anti-trust cases now before the supreme court, the American Tobacco company case having been closed.

Mr. Milburn in reviewing the inception of the Standard Oil, declared that the idea flashed through the mind of Mr. Rockefeller that "volume" was the only cure-all for the ills that at that time beset the rapidly developing oil industry. Conditions were chaotic in the refining business, according to Mr. Milburn; all sorts of "makeshifts" were called refineries, and ruinous competition and crude methods had demoralized the industry. Prices for refining were rapidly falling and there was not a systematic plan of geographical distribution. "Volume" was the only thing that could meet and overcome the disordered condition created, according to Mr. Milburn, by "a law of providence."

Beneficent Purposes Set Out.

The attorney for the Standard declared that most of its acquisitions of properties had been with the beneficent purpose of relieving the vendors. Owners of small refineries discovered after awhile that Mr. Rockefeller's genius had created a revolution in the oil industry with which a limited capital could not hope successfully to compete, and they came trooping to the Standard with offers to sell. There was no obligation on the part of the Standard to buy, according to its legal defender, but it was disposed to be gracious, and as it could use some of the material in these plants, it took over a number of them at an appraised value and their former owners went away rejoicing and praising the great enterprise conceived and extended by Mr. Rockefeller.

Mr. Milburn's voice trembled when he recited the great sacrifices made by his client to save the production of oil in the Pennsylvania field in the 70's when, at great expense, upon borrowed capital for a credit strained almost to the breaking point, the Standard extended its pipe line holdings and increased its storage facilities to an enormous extent to take care of the oil production and prevent waste and save the producers from losing money. He admitted that some of the railroad contracts and agreements were open to criticism, but reminded the court that in some instances Mr. Rockefeller had personally advised against these devices and that in the end most of them had proved impractical and had been abandoned, and thereby Mr. Rockefeller's business genius had been vindicated. He asked the court to read all such contracts that the government had introduced as evidence exhibits, "in the light of the circumstances surrounding each case."

The growth and development of the Standard Oil business had come about through the creation of new business by the Standard rather than through acquisition, according to the attorney.

Attorney General Wickersham smiled and took notes, and Frank B. Kellogg, who has been relentlessly pursuing the Standard company for years, seemed to be irritated by the praise that was being showered upon Mr. Rockefeller, and savagely wrote upon the margin of his prepared speech some of the things he will say in answer to Mr. Milburn.

The Vote Was Applauded.

Washington, Jan. 13.—The amendment in the legislative bill providing for the sale of the bathtubs and bathtub equipment in the house office building was stricken out of that measure. The amendment was unpopular and its defeat was applauded.

Must Finish His Sentence.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 13.—The state board of pardons has denied a parole to Newton C. Dougherty, former city superintendent of Peoria, who was convicted for embezzling city funds and is now serving a sentence in Joliet.

A Boy and a Gun.

Joliet, Ill., Jan. 13.—Mrs. Lillian Wilson was killed by her fifteen-year-old son Matthew. The boy was cleaning a rifle, when it accidentally exploded.

DEHORITY FILES
LENGTHY REPORT

Head of State Board of Examiners is Compelled to Comply With Legislature's Wishes.

SHOWS BIG LOSS TO STATE

While $145,552.30 Has Been Spent to Make Examinations, Only $50,- 967.11 Has Been Recovered.

Representative S. B. Wells of Scott county, proposed to take a fall out of William Dehority, State examiner and head of the State board of accounts, by introducing a bill in the legislature now in session in Indianapolis, to amend the bill so that the examiners' salary would be reduced. Accompanying the amendment was a resolution which demanded that Dehority be compelled to make a public accounting of the receipts and expenditures in his office and the results of examination. He was sustained by the house of representatives by a vote of 74 to 15 and not many hours after the action of the house, the chief accountant had filed a complete tabulated report of the doings of his office from its beginning up until the end of this year.

An abstract of the detailed tabulation has been filed with the members of the house by Mr. Dehority, showing the total cost of the 1,711 examinations which have been completed and the reports made public to be $145,552.30, while the total direct charges amounted to $439,868.62, and the constructive charges to $301,867.30. The amount recovered by voluntary settlement by officials and former officials found short in their accounts amounted to $50,967.11. By subtraction it is plain to see that the State board of accounts has, up to the present time, cost the taxpayers of Indiana $95,585.19. Nearly one hundred and fifty thousand dollars has been spent in making the examinations, while only about fifty thousand dollars has been recovered from officials who have been said to be short.

In the case of Rush county, as is shown by Mr. Dehority's own tabulated report, the county has suffered to the extent of $3,438.20. The report shows that this amount has been paid out here to examine the books of present and former county and township officials, while no money has been recovered.

The complete tabulated report has been placed on file in the accounting board office for the inspection by members of the general assembly. The tabulations set out in detail the municipalities examined, the per diem of the examiners and their railroad fares, the direct charges and the constructive charges made against officials and former officials found to be short and the amount recovered in every examination during the year ending December 31.

Direct charges, as has been explained, are those in which the official or former official is charged with money to which he was not entitled, under the law, when he took it. A constructive charge is one for money in a case in which an official failed to follow the law, but where it is not shown that the municipality was a loser or that it did not get value received.

In addition to a tabulation filed with the general assembly by Mr. Dehority, setting out the above totals, Mr. Dehority has included the following, taken from reports now in the hands of the auditing department, which have not been made public: Direct charges, $38,811.77; constructive charges, $63,359.68; total charges, $102,171.45; amount recovered, $3,953.14; per diem cost of examination, $10,683.75; railroad fare, $129.43; total cost of examination, $10,815.18.

According to an Indianapolis paper it is certain that the fight upon the accounting board as now operated will be a hard one, as the board has given offense all over the State by its treatment of public officials. It will be alleged in the house during the session that the board has been more interested in making grandstand plays than in establishing a uniform accounting system, that it has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars needlessly, that it has kept a small army of employees upon the pay roll without cause, that it has been handled by an Indianapolis paper, the News, for private and, political reasons and in this process the reputation of innocent men have been smirched and the integrity of whole communities needlessly libeled. It will allege that while this board set itself up as the judge of all offices and officers in Indiana and purported to be able to establish a system of accounting, it was unable, when called upon by the legislative investigating committee for a report of its conduct, acts and expenses to make such report, although it had 128 expert accountants and examiners at its command and it was the only State office, commission or board that was not able to give the committee a report up to the minute.

WILL VISIT PANAMA.

L. A. Frazee of Connorsville, brother of John P. Frazee of North Main street, together with his family, is making preparations to leave the latter part of the month for South and Central America. The family expects to be gone five weeks during which they will spend a greater part of the time in Panama.

The Town of Glenwood All Stirred up
Over Revival Meetings, Conducted by Evangelist Baker.

LARGE CROWDS EACH NIGHT

The revival meetings in progress at Glenwood are stirring the people of that community as they were perhaps never stirred before. More people are drawn nightly than the building can hold. Evangelist Baker is conducting the evangelistic work. On Sunday the evangelist addressed the largest body of men that ever attended a religious service in Glenwood. There have been a large number of conversions and about fifty church members have re-consecrated their lives to christian service. The meetings open at 7:15 each evening. The invitation to come to the meetings is general.

The Willing Workers class of the St. Paul M. E. church will hold an exchange in the front of the Harriet Plough store tomorrow. 263t1
